

Data Citation - What's All the Fuss?

Session Type: Presentation and Discussion

Contact: Drew Ignizio, Lisa Zolly (volunteered by Viv Hutchison (vhutchison@usgs.gov))

Description: What is the real value of data citation? What considerations should we be mindful of in our use of digital object identifiers (at what level should they be applied)? How is USGS involved in the larger community organizations in terms data citation? What tools do we have in USGS to create, reserve, and apply DOIs to our data?

The more we collectively understand the intricacies of data citation and can align how we apply identifiers, the more successful we will be in understand how our data is being reused in science.
