Folks,

I was asked the following question:

"Just asking a metadata content question, about the Process Step specifically. It's usually a looong block of text in the metadata. If possible, we would like to replace that text block with a DOI link to a journal article that has the same information and more detail."

My first inclination is no, the actual metadata needs to be present, but thought maybe y'all have some comments on this one.